

Bill and Sue Garland Rahiri Farm

WRC PC1 Hearing 20 May 2019

Rahiri Farm

fencing remnant bush areas does not always address water quality but it helps

05/07/2013

fencing remnant bush areas does not always address water quality but it helps

Rahiri Farm
Bill and Sue Garland

Image kindly provided by

SIDE-CATCHMENT 2

SIDE-CATCHMENT 1

OPTION 2

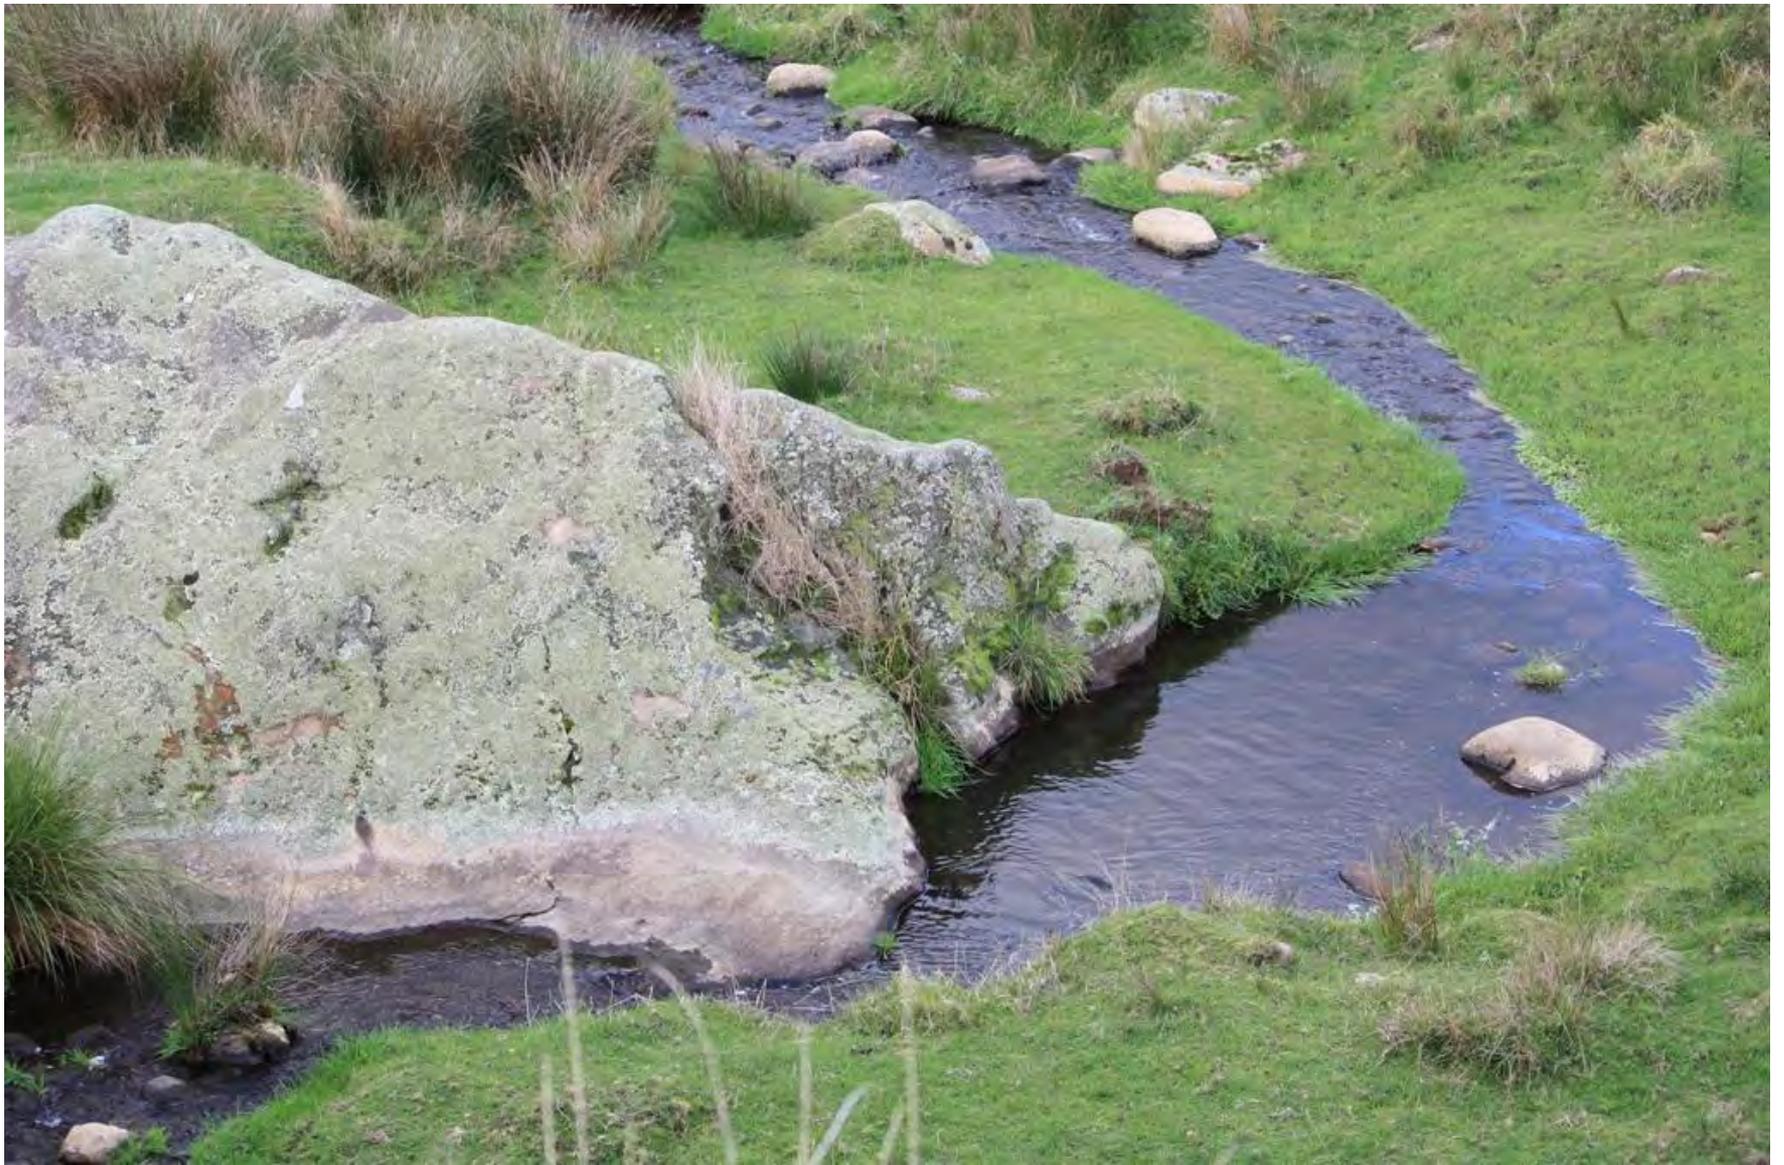

The right stocking policy can lead to regeneration of wetlands without a fence

How do you monitor if a farmer is managing to their farm environment plan?

Tussock condition and the undisturbed vegetation along the stream edge a riparian paddock, fenced outside the flood zone along a benched track - achieving water quality, stock and vehicle access, and grazing management

Before

The health of vegetation can be an excellent indicator of grazing pressure

Before

Things have changed over the last 50 years